

The Diabetes, Heart Disease and Dementia Connection: Data Overview

Healthy Women & Aging

October 5, 2010

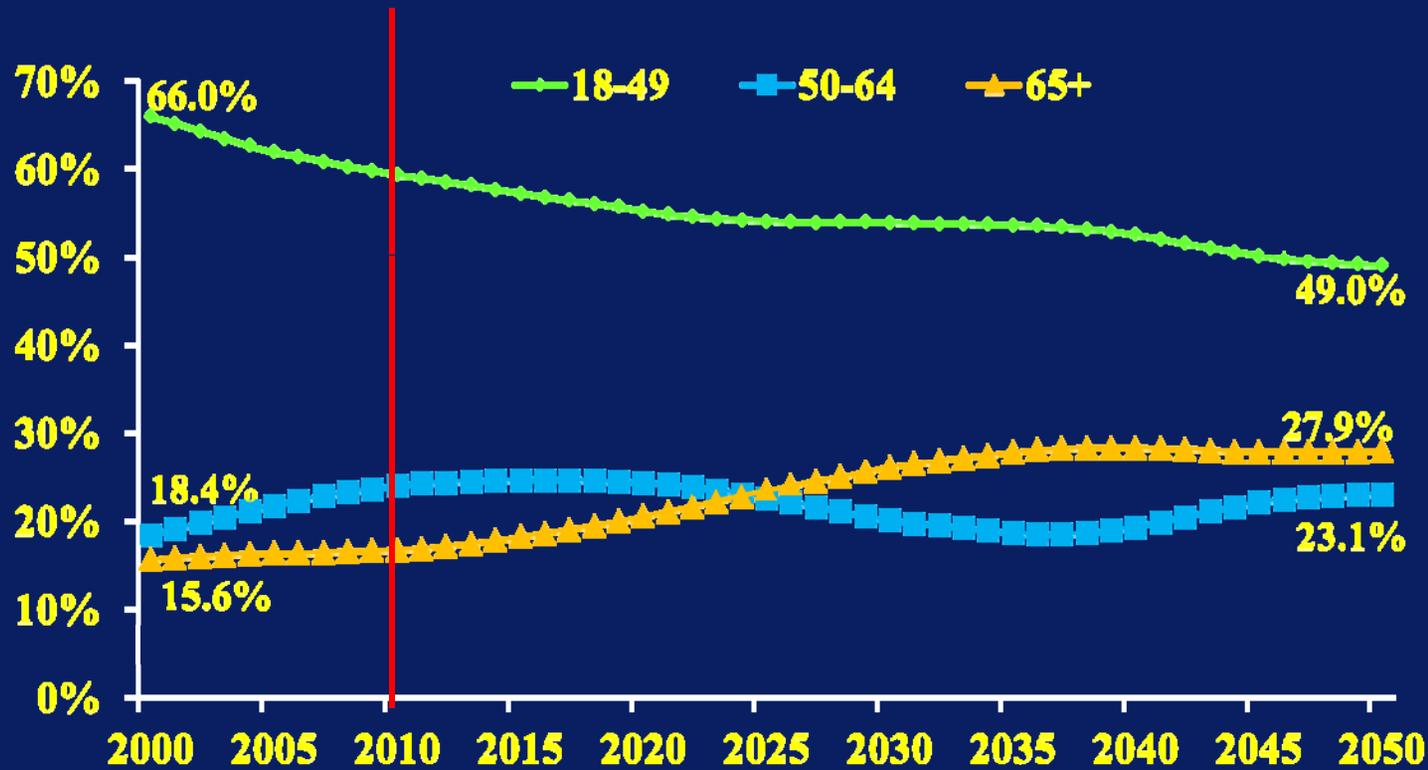

Susie Baldwin, MD, MPH

Office of Health Assessment & Epidemiology

Los Angeles County Department of Public Health

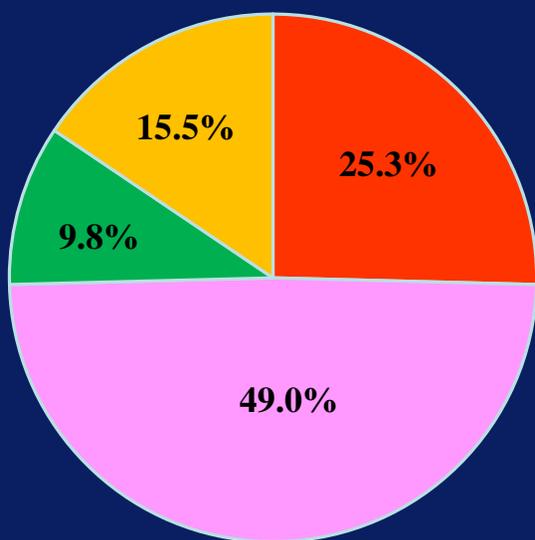

Projected LA County Adult Female Population, by Age Group, 2000-2050

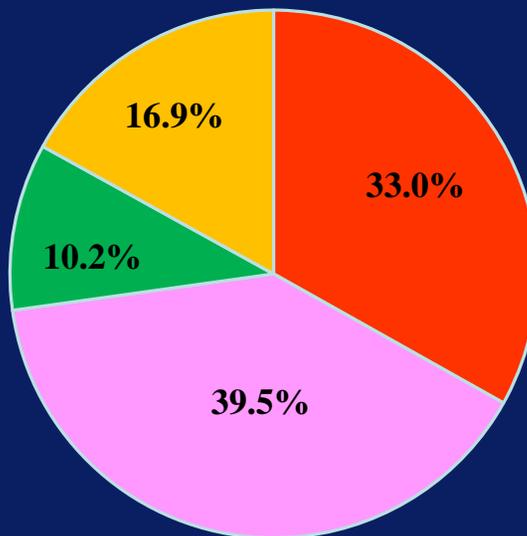

Race/Ethnicity Among LA County Women, By Age Group

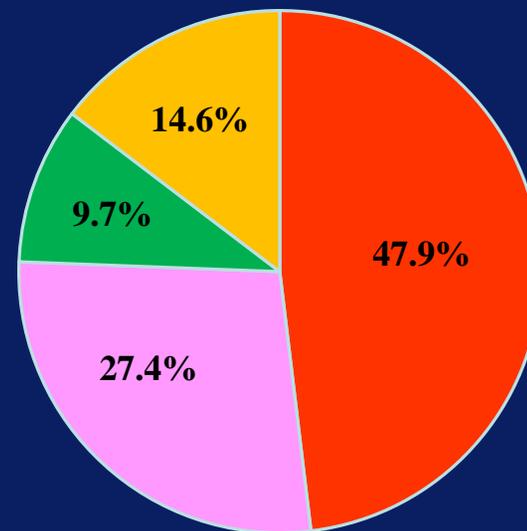

Latina White African American Asian/Pacific Islander

65+ Year Olds

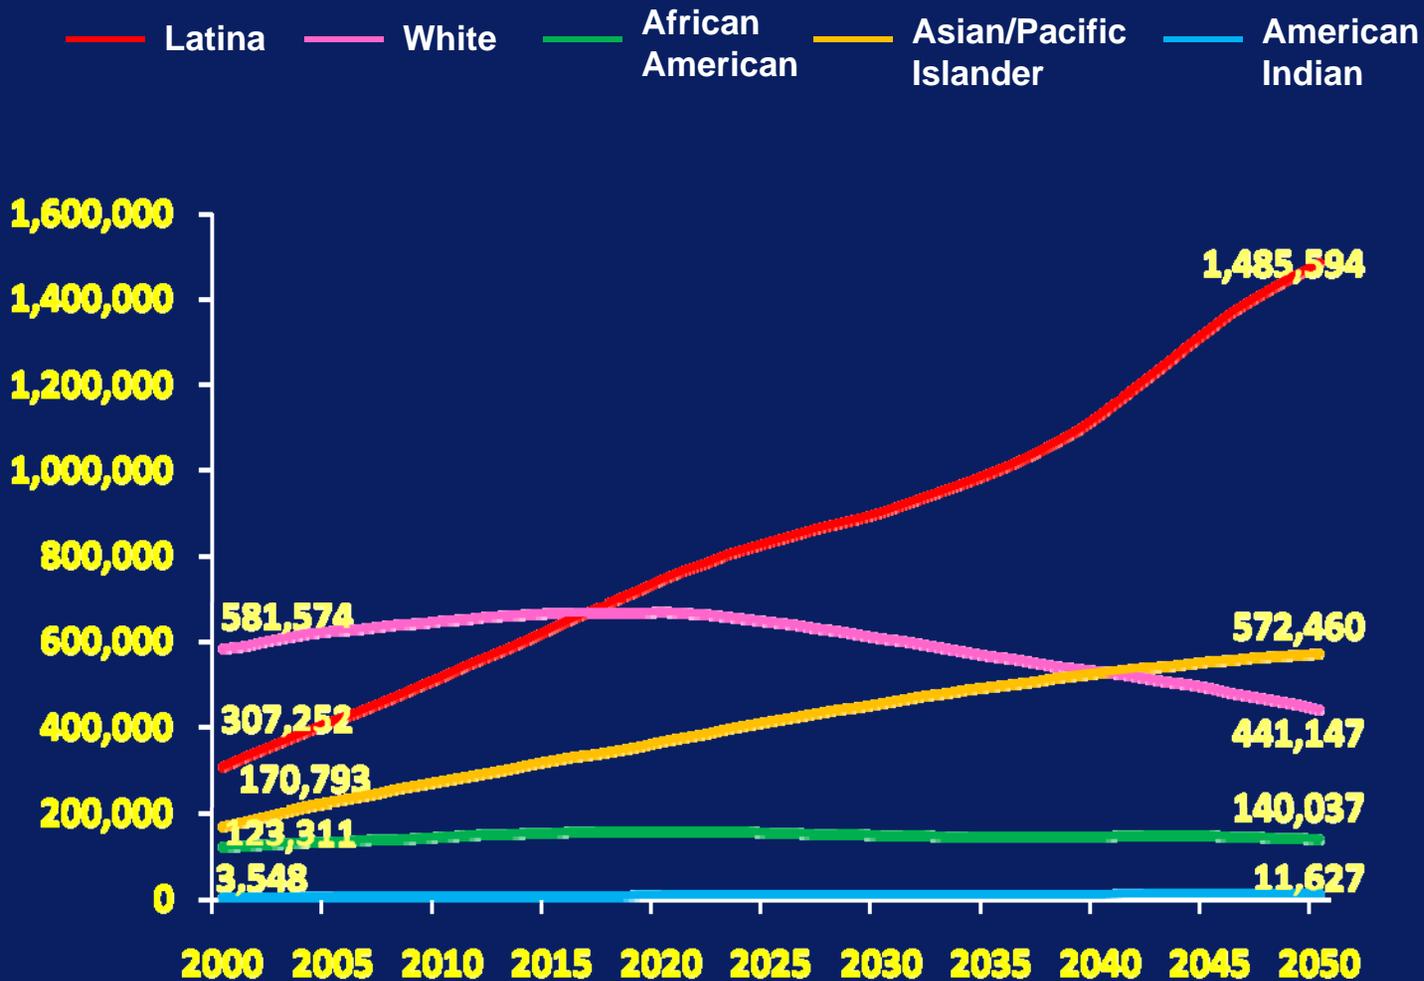

50-64 Year Olds

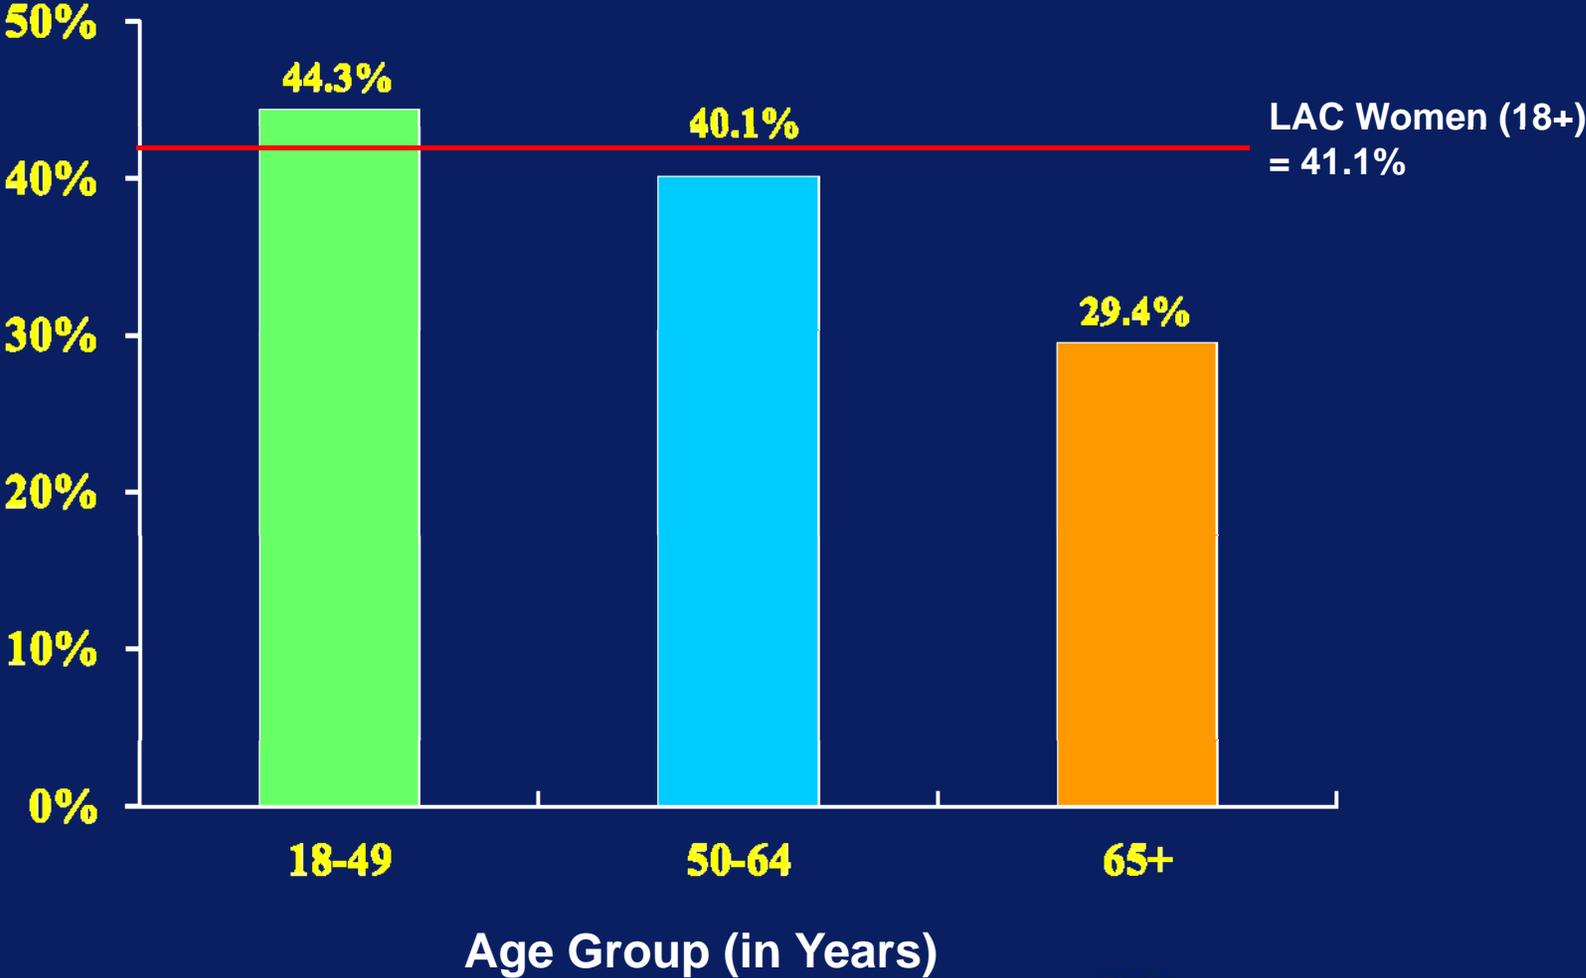

18-49 Year Olds

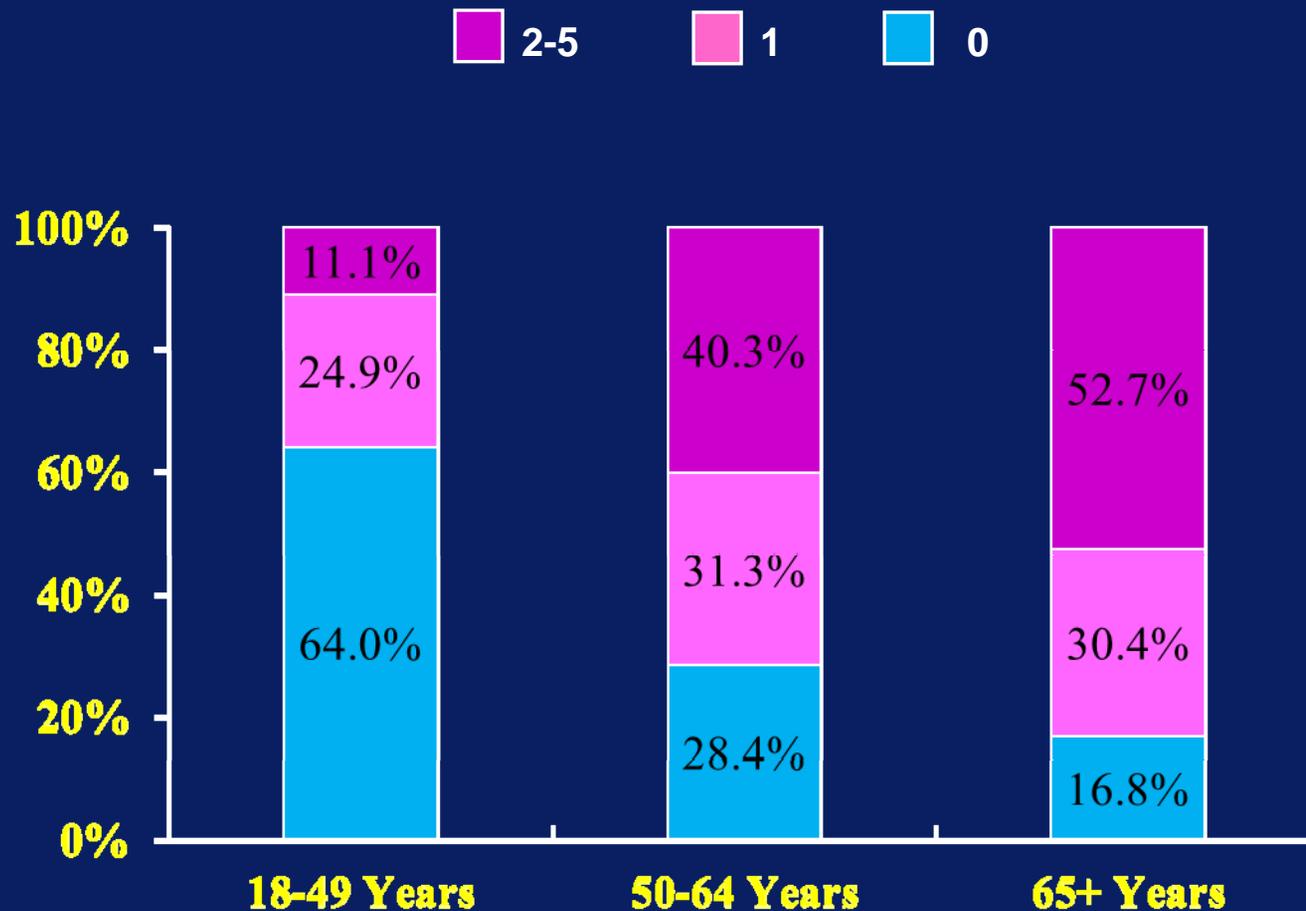

Projected Racial/Ethnic Composition of Females 50+ Years, LA County, 2000-2050

Percent of LA County Adult Women Born Outside the U.S., By Age Group (LACHS 2007)

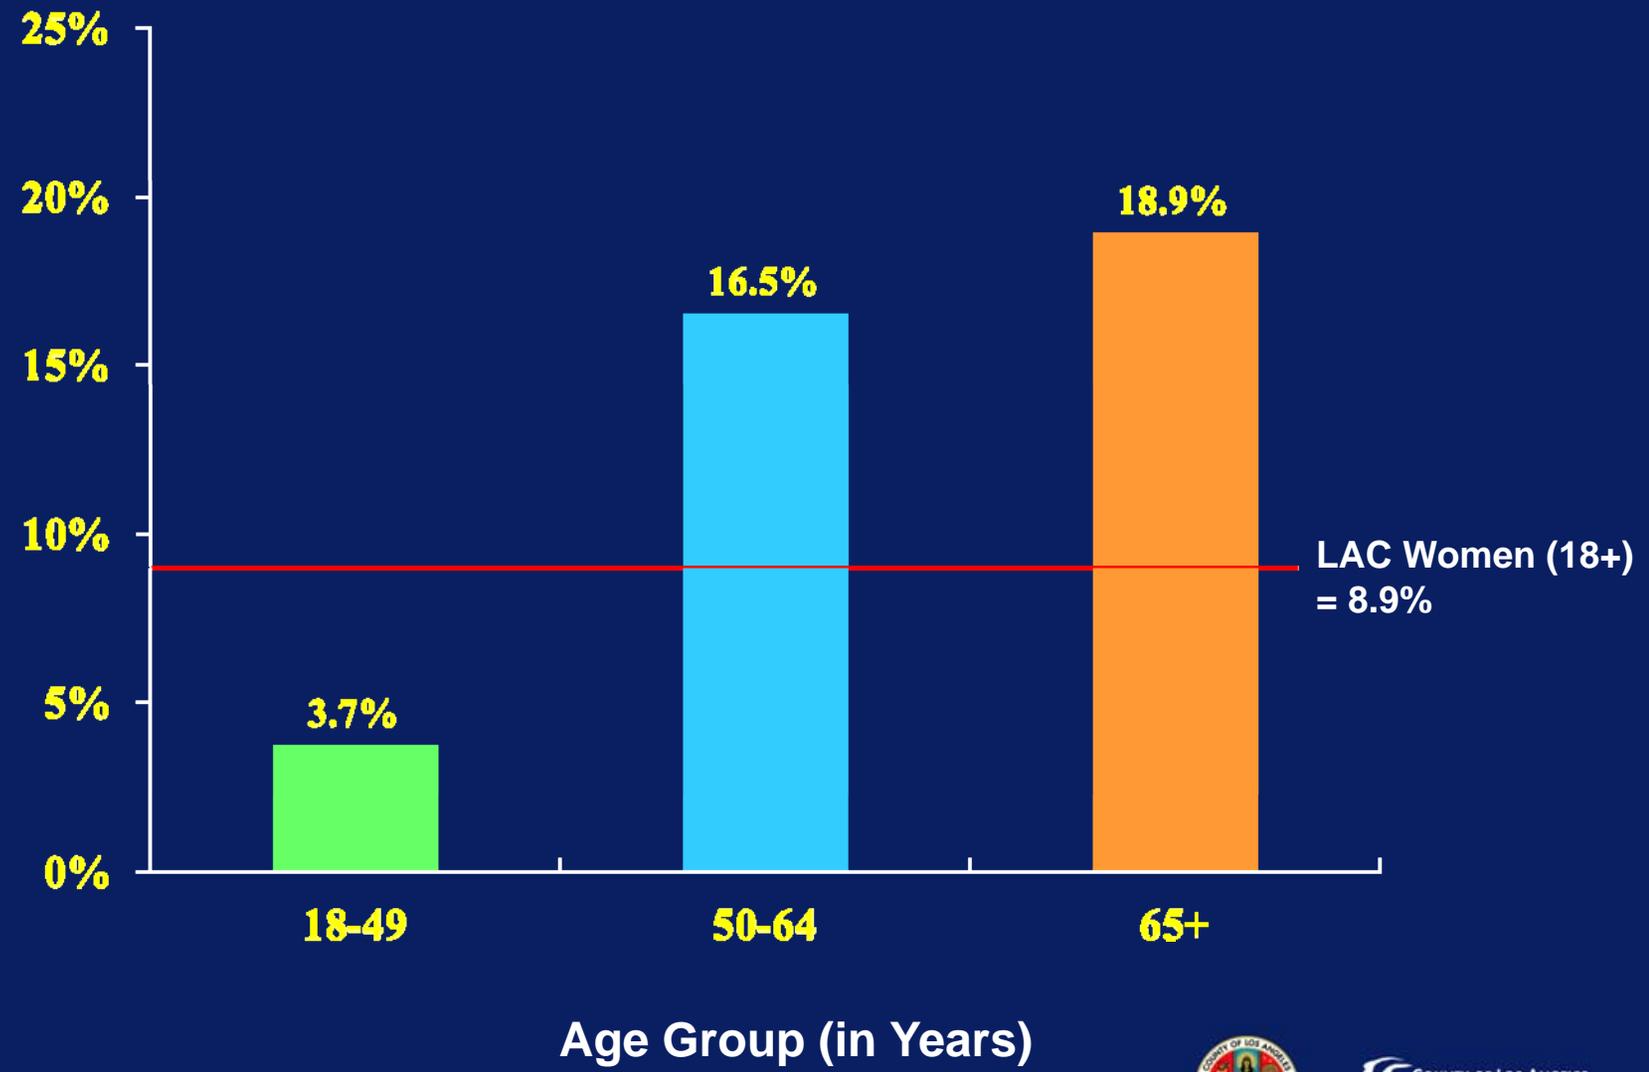

Number of Chronic Conditions‡ for Women by Age Group (LACHS 2007)

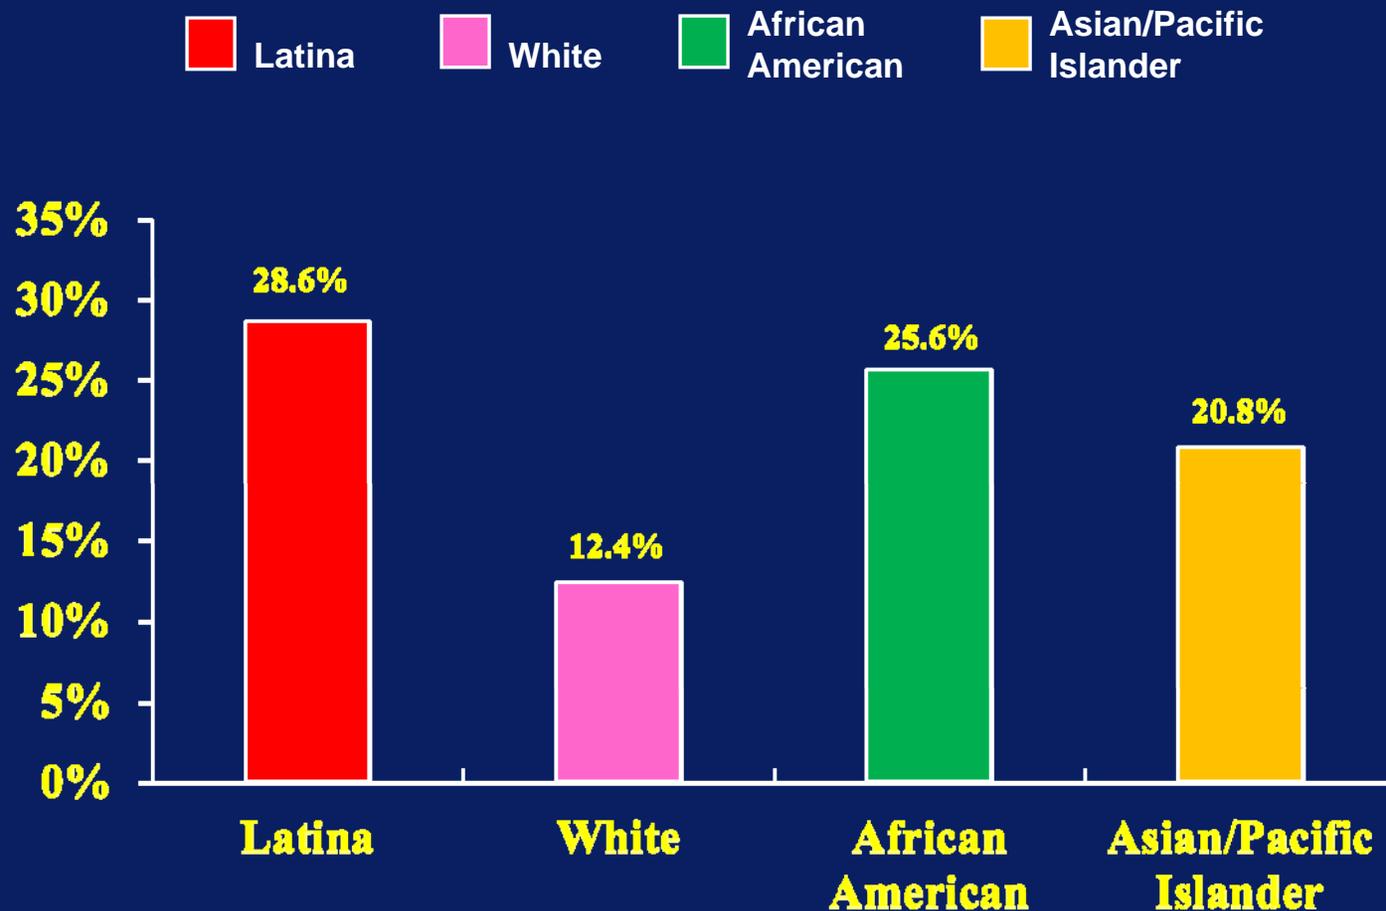

‡ The five chronic conditions included in the analysis were depression, diabetes, heart disease, high cholesterol, hypertension.

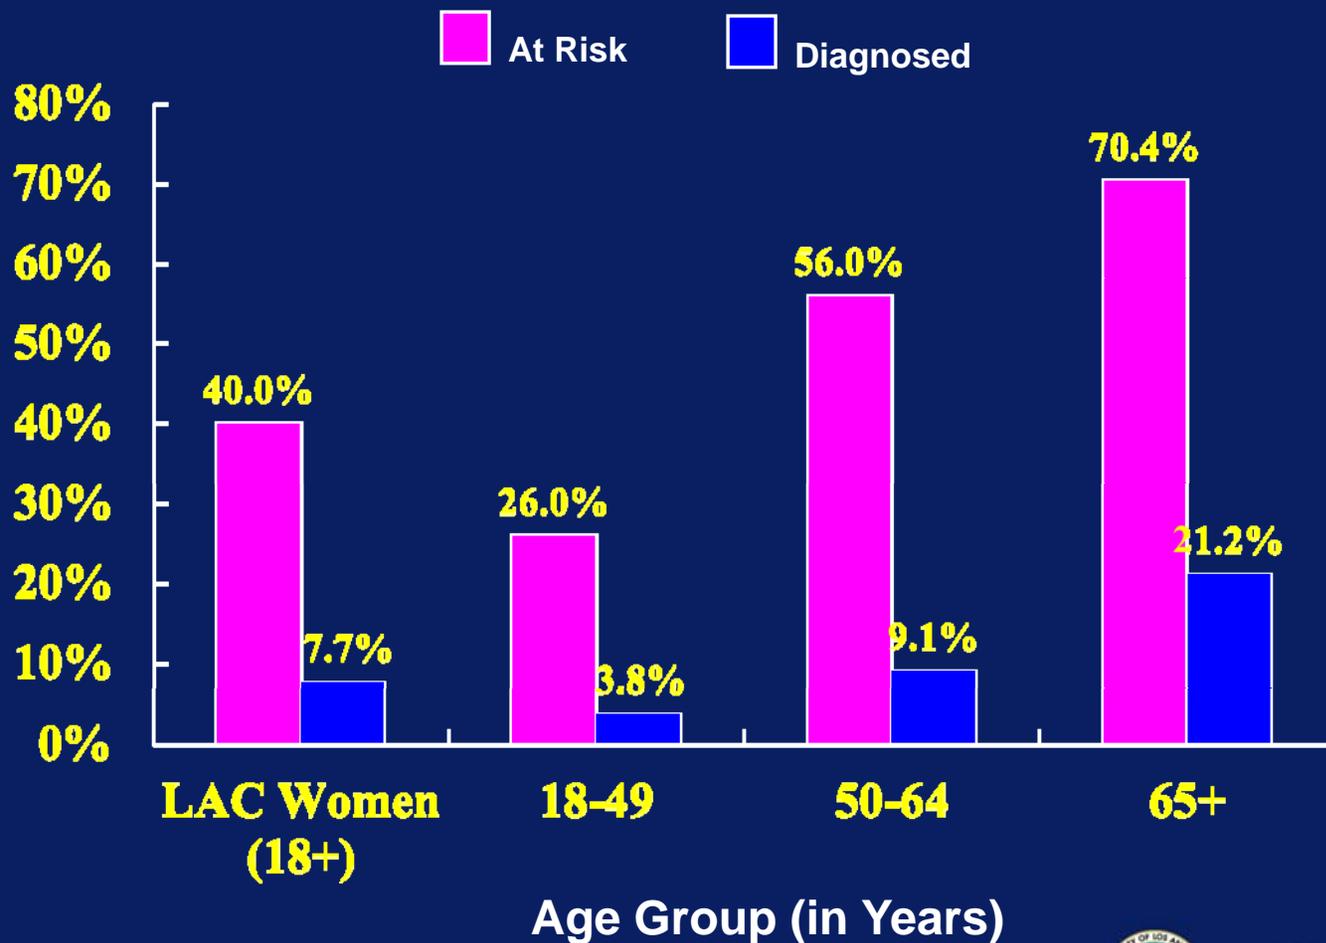

Percent of LA County Adult Women With Diagnosed Diabetes, By Age Group (LACHS 2007)

Diagnosed Diabetes Among LA County Women 65+ years old, by Race/Ethnicity (LACHS 2007)

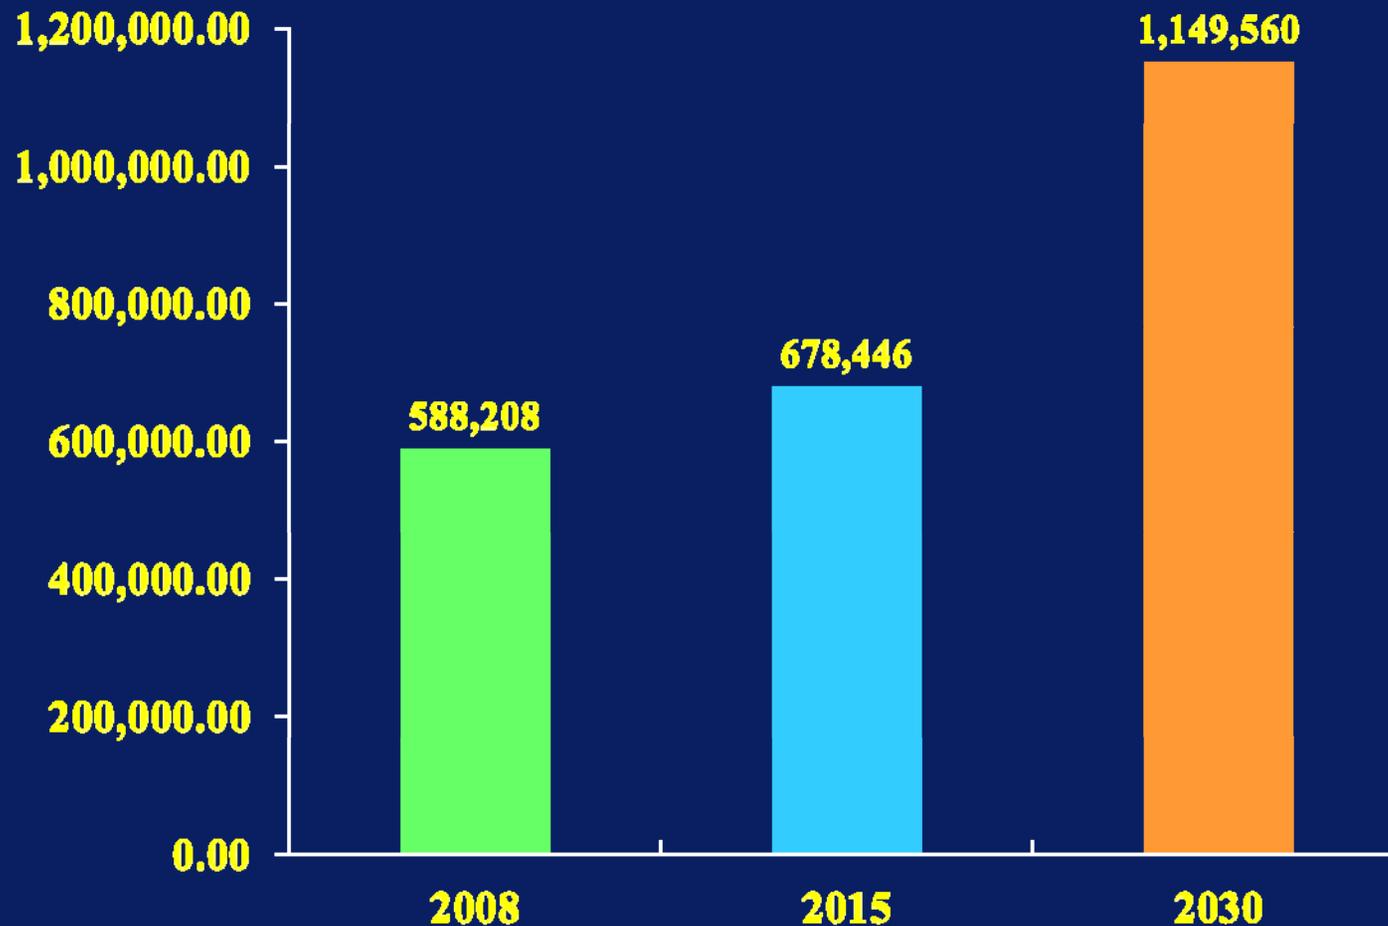

Percent of LA County Adult Women At Risk for Heart Disease[‡] and Diagnosed with Heart Disease, By Age Group (LACHS 2007)

[‡] Risk for heart disease is defined as having 2 or more of the following conditions: diabetes, hypertension, high cholesterol, obesity, minimal to no physical activity, and current cigarette smoker.

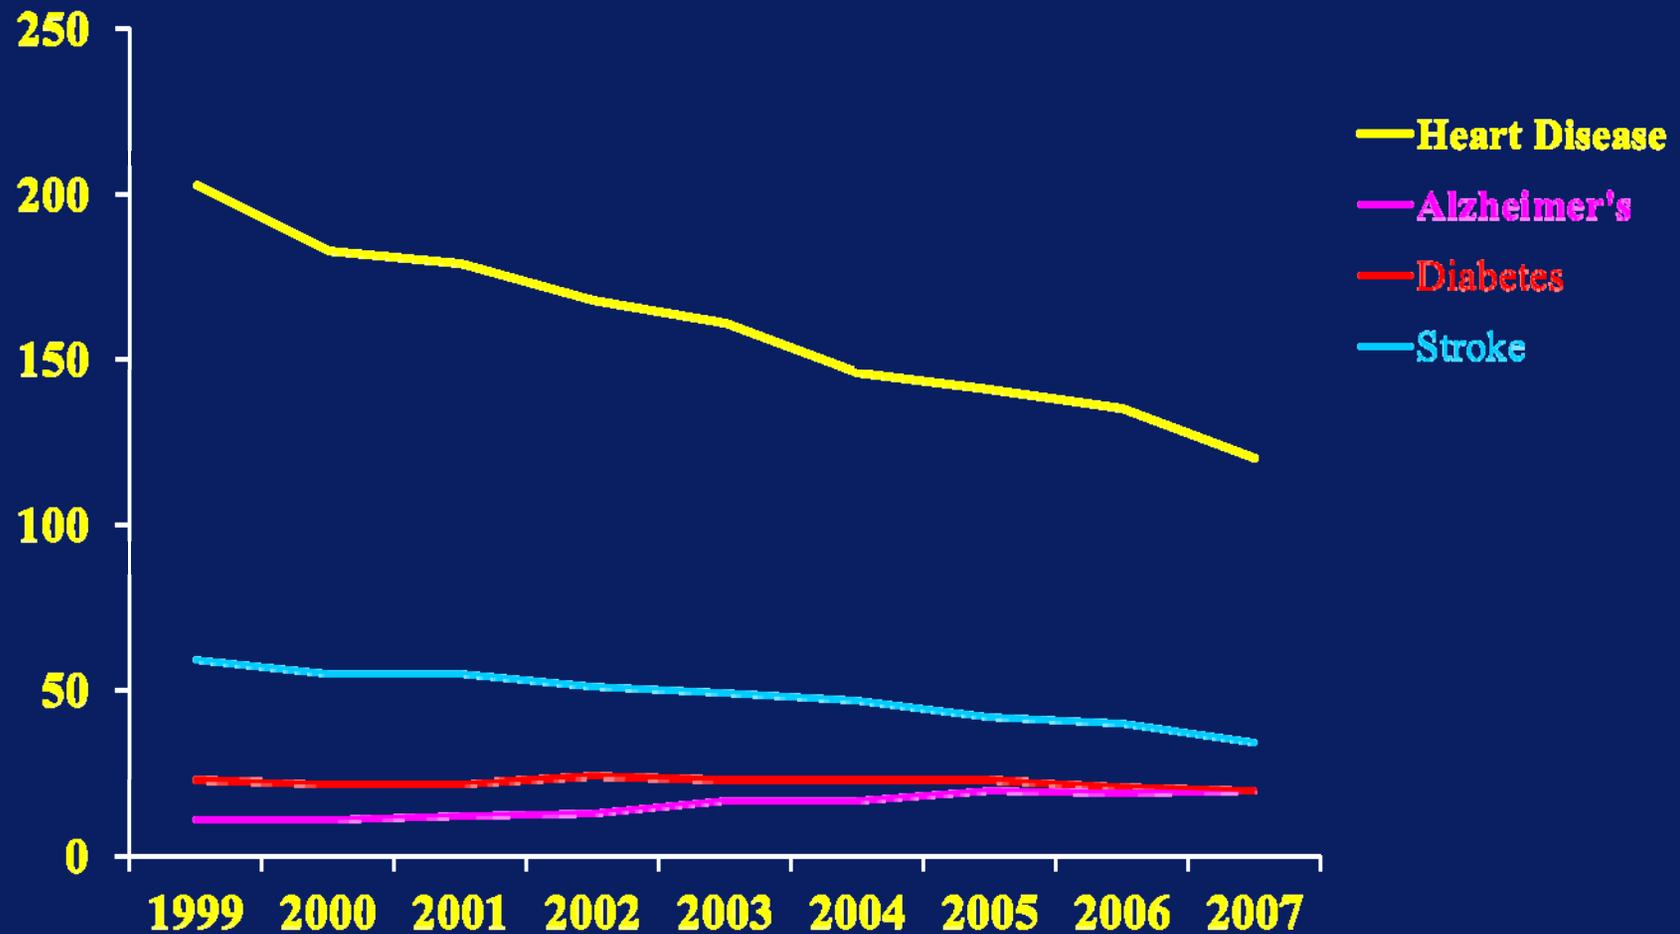

Projected Increase in Number of Californians 55+ Years Old With Alzheimer's Disease

Alzheimer's Association, 2009

Mortality Trends for Heart Disease, Alzheimer's Disease, Diabetes and Stroke Among LA County Females†

† Age-adjusted mortality rates per 100,000

Acknowledgements

LA County Department of Public Health
Office of Health Assessment & Epidemiology
Health Assessment Unit

Amy S. Lightstone, MPH, MA

Gayane Meschyan, PhD

Gigi Mathew, PhD

Jerome Blake, MPH

Yajun Du, MPH

Yan Cui, MD, PhD

Thanks also to our colleagues in the
Epidemiology Unit and DC&A

