Prescription Drug Misuse

What you need to know:

Prescription drugs are medications that can be given only by health care providers, like doctors, and they play an important part in treating diseases and saving lives. Prescription drugs can be dangerous when they are not used, or thrown away, in the right way. Taking medicine that is not yours, mixing it with alcohol, or using it with other drugs your doctor doesn’t know about can cause injury and sometimes even death.

What is prescription drug misuse?

Prescription drug misuse is when someone takes a prescription drug in a way that is different than how it was prescribed. For example:

- Taking more than you should or mixing it with other drugs or alcohol
- Taking the medicine without a prescription
- Taking medication to feel “high”

What are the consequences of prescription drug misuse?

In Los Angeles County (LAC):

- 1 in 20 adults misuse prescription drugs
- 1 in 5 teens misuse prescription drugs
- About 70% of abused prescription drugs come from family and friends

Every year in LAC, prescription drug overdoses contribute to:

- 400 deaths
- 14,500 hospitalizations
- 9,000 emergency department visits
- 2,500 treatment admissions into publicly funded programs

What are the myths about prescription drug misuse?

1) Prescription drugs are not addictive.

Your brain can respond similarly to prescription drugs and street drugs, and both can lead to addiction.

2) It’s okay to use prescription drugs without a doctor’s permission.

Only a medical provider can tell you how to use them safely. Prescription drugs obtained from illegitimate sources can be counterfeit and may contain other substances, such as fentanyl, that may lead to overdose and death.

3) Prescription drugs are safe because they are legal and widely available.

Prescription drugs are only safe when used correctly and under a doctor’s care. Misuse can cause injury and even death.
